AFFAIRS IN LCUISIANA.

The state of the s

promised Senatorial lost. A sin agalast himself sinexpiable. He recently shot out of your city under amusing circumstances. While he was desponding over the barren chances for a new election it was whispered that a requisition from Louisiana for his arrest was on its way to Governor Shepherd. It was a tin pan he had long dreaded for his tatit, and the haste with which he fled from the Territory of Columbia to New York, where his friend Bullock, of Georgia, lurks in standow, was the subject of lond guiffaws all over Louisiana. Soon after he quictly ascertained from here that his fright was without immediate reason, whereupon he hastened hither to simulate a courage which he has failed to establish in social or military circles. Gov. Kellogg said two days since that he would soon have Warmoth in the penitentiary—the counts against him are maturing from a rigid analysis of Louisiana securities now being prosecuted. Both political parties, cicarly, are unanimous that he should be abated as a public suisance, and impatient for his conviction. He was an extravagant highwayman, and pillaged by millions. The people are still compelled to surrender their money in taxation because of his bills he long held at half-cock to their heads. Signal relief is now afforded, however, by the new funding bill, the passage of which Gov. Kellogg, added vigorously by the Chamber of Commerce, composed of four hundred of the old solid Democratic merchants and capitalists of New Orleans, has recently accomplished in the Louisiana Legislature. When such men can cheerfully combine with Kellogg to maintain the interests of the State. It is evident that amity and muterial beaned and make the complished in the Louisiana Legislature. When such men can cheerfully ombine with Kellogg to maintain the interests of the State, it is evident that amity and material progress have been reached, and that the new lection plea receives no responsible emphasis rerybody there, except a score of McEnery isans, who forecast a term of rapine, was for a c disquieted lest a new election might ensue, h an event and its prefatory canvass would be 1 wounds to the whole industrial system of Steepard the planter, the merchant and the prefatory than the planter of the secondary and the planter is the secondary and the planter. such an event and its prefatory canvass would be latal wounds te the whole industrial system of the State, and the planter, the merchant and the abover amounced their firm disinclination to make so serious a sacrifice simply to appease the chagrin of McEnery at his discomfiture. Because, in many instances, they gave him their rotes in 1872 they do not agree that such ballots were virtually pawns of their crops, their profits at their labor for their candidate after election lay had lapsed. The recent published letter of x-Gov. Hebert, one of Louisiana's oldest and nost honored sons, and a life-long Democrat, to ionator Bayard, of Delaware, is a significant oken of the Democratic sentiment there. The x-Governor pronounces vehemently against a sw election, yet no man contributed more material service to the McEnery canvass in '72 than 1d he. The New Orleans Ficayane, the most obstate sentiment enemy of he Republican party, "sug comments upon He. Fit's letter:

Its very next page thus reports the proceedings no days previous of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce:

"Mr. Sandidge offered a resolution of thanks to the Legislature, commending them for passing he funding bill and the evident intention shown to said measures in the interest of reform.

Mr. Oglesby said such a resolution ought to pass. The chamber had advocated the measure, and it was due to the Legislature to thank them for their action. He had noticed in the Picagune a protest signed by bondholders. They were New York bon tholders, who had been instrumental in mausing it e previous legislation which was complained of They had been legislating for us, but how we propose to do it for ourselves. At least sighty per cent, of the bondholders signing that article were of the concern known as the $2,500,000 Chattane oga railroad swindle. New York legislated that bill and paid for it. It was too late to plead the sanctity of the bonds now. The Legislature had acted more favorably toward the bondholders than towards us. If they had made it not per cent, it would have been an even the sanctity of the bonds now. The Legislature had acted more favorably toward the bondholders than towards us. If they had made it not per cent, it would have been an even the sanctity of the bonds now. The Legislature had acted more favorably toward the bondholders than towards us. If they had made it not per cent, it would have been an even the advallage. The Chattanooga bondholders were the only once who complained.

"The re-outtion was adopted, and the chamber adjourned.

A tow, when you bear in mind that Mr. Sandidge, ions committal of the question of administration in popular suffrage inspires hearty content all yer the State.

After the three kings of the Senate, Morton, Conkling and Frelinghuysen, had parenthesized Matt. Carpenter's speech, the satisfaction was here manifest in every countenance. When the hall canvass shall arrive the Republican party of the Union may point proudly to Loudsians as an illustration of the wisdom and equity of its national policy. Poor McEnery has been playing from Quixote so long that his official armor of pasteboard section nothing but compassion now ayou among his party-figions. They object to his running a tilt against their insterial interests that the fool of Lee manients droves it shall not be henceforth at their cost. It is to be fondly hoped that upon his return from the emptade may be stride his Rosinante here in the Warmoth stable and retreat to the familiar wides of sorthern Louisiana, where he may forget his mad dream in his modest practice as an attorney.

The Pinchback issue awakens, perhaps, less excitement now than recently; and for the reasons, first, that the last exception against him confided for investigation to the Sonate Committee, being of a personal character, in no wise impeaches the content now than recently; and or the reasons, first, that the last exception against him confided for investigation to the Sonate Committee, being of a personal character, in no wise impeaches the content now than recently; and not the reasons, first, that the last exception will be discovered to be wholly stithout warrant. Content has therefore taken the place of the alarm first felt, lest on a political exception he, and with him the Louisiana administration, might fall for lack of title. Now Mr. Pinchback is not challenged on the ground that an invalid body has accredited him as Senator, but solely because he may improperly have consumed to the properly of the properly of this mutation is largely due to the mellowing tefluence of a successful and liberal State administration. They see that the result of Judge Durell's action is after all a most happy see—hence they are disarmed largely of their original spices.

It has been seen that action, and are in many case
candid to extol the courage of the judicial officer who dared construe a statute in the strict spirit and intent of its national authors, as he between despite the memcar and prejudices his firmness aroused. The Democratic clausor against him here has lost much of its force, and I doubt not that within two or three mouths Judge Campbell, of Louisians, and others who were recent witnesses against him, after subscribing shortly before a formal remonstrance against his then contemplated resignation, will volunteer another memerial to make the samele honored.

It is somewhat curious, upon looking over the original debates in Ucugress upon the emforcement act, to note the tenut of the Democratic opposition and that of the liepublican speasors. The Democratic lawyers admonished the country what Federal judges, among other efficials, would be compelled to do upon spiriovishe demand under the statute, and the Republicans did not gainsay such an interpretation, but stoutly denied in that it was in any way unconstitutional. After mature deliberation the set passed both Houses in May, 1870, and in numerous popular elections since has continuously met with favor. Congress male it law; the people have acclaimed it; Judge Durell, them, has neither warped the law nor done violence to the moral seaso of the people. To this completion, in fine, has the biatant McEnery cause come at last. Warmpth wants a new election; McEnery, with no chaines for a second candi dature, wants to be avenged upon Judge Durell, and McMillan wants Pinchback's seat. In this sorry trinky is now condensed the sole antageniem in Louisians.

lectures on "Criminal Law" before the law classes of the National University last evening. His general subject was "the requisites and defects in indictments." He said at the time Blackstone wrote the "Criminal Code" that of England was a code of blood. One hundred and sixty offences are code of blood. One hundred and sixty offences exceeding the value of twelve pence his life ionid the forfeit. It has been very common for shallow thinkers and wordy disclainers to demounce the were the most natural and necessary origrowth of such a Draconian code. But the incre careful observer must see that the ingenious technicalities recognized by the courts of that age were but protests of intellect and humanity against the barbarities of the punishments attached to what are now regarded as minor offences. He then proceeded in a lecture of an hour's duration to point out the requisites and defects in indictments.

At the close of his lecture, on motion of B. C. Tifany, as president of the junior class, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be tendered to Judge Wm. B. Snell for his valuable and interesting course of lectures on criminal law delivered before us, and that he be invited to repeat the course before the close of the session.

MOUNT VERNON. MOUNT VERNON.

A very large company of ladies and gentlemen took advantage of the pleasant weather yesterday, to make a trip to Mount Vernon. The sail was a most delightful one, rendered doubly agreeable by the attention shown by Captain Frank Hollingshead, of the Arrow, and Col. Hollingsworth, superintendent of the grounds, (who was aboard,) to the passengers. Although the winter weather has robbed the lawn of its verdure and the trees of their foliage, the place, under the bright rays of a summer sun, looked well, and all were amply worth the visit. The interior of the house is in excellent condition, the green-house and conservatory filled with choice flowers, a plank road has been laid from the wharf to the mansion, the old spring still bubbles forth its bountiful supply of water, and those who desire it can always get a good substantial lunch and fresh, rich milk. The tomb, of course, remains unchanged, its unpretending material and architecture contrasting strongly with the splendid apparel of the ladies who, grouped before its door in reverential silence, paid soleum tribute to the ashes of departed greatness, and then wandered through the grounds and mansion, inspecting the various places of interest.

LITERATURE, SCIENCE AND ART.

LITERATURE, SCIENCE AND ART. The Union Academy of Literature, Science and Art met yesterday evening at the rooms of Judge Bartley at 7:30 o'clock; Dr. Mackey in the chair,

Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Ernest Ruppert, Emil Schubert and C. E. Behle called upon the Emil Schubert and C. E. Behle called upon the widow of the late Sergeant Kneassi and in a few appropriate and feeling remarks tendered her the sum of $415, the net proceeds of the ball recently given by the German Veteran Union for her bonefit, together with a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures, as follows: German Veteran Union. $142: Metropolitan police, $200; hat-room, $11; supper, $50.98; total, $463.96, Expenses: Hall rent, $70; music, $45; printing, $43.50; incidentals, $20.60; total, $178.90. DIVORCES.

Two applications for divorce were filed in the clerk's office of the Supreme Court of this Dis-Colonel C. Farr, who, it will be recollected, was not long since in the Post Office Department, seeks divorce from Emma P. Farr. He alleges that at the time of his marriage to her she represented herself to be a widow, and that her child was born in lawful wedlock. He avers, however, that she was no widow, and that her child was a bustard, for which and other reasons he asks a divorce.

HOUSE CARPENTERS AND JOINERS.

The Washington branch of Amalgamated House Carpenters and Joiners held their regular semimonthly meeting, at Mechanics' hall, last evening, Mr. J. P. Mackey, president, in the chair.

Mr. Reed, from the committee appointed to recommend amendments to the constitution so as to allow the admission of applicants over forty years of age, made a report, which was adopted.

The report recommends to the American district committee to instruct the representative fof the Sixteenth district) to the general council to urge the necessity of so altering or amending the rules as to admit persons between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five years; also, to admit parties of six or more persons and allow them to pay the entrance fee of their average age, regardless of former associations, for instance, six persons whose average is forty years should each pay the entrance fee of that age.

Mr. Burgoyne stated that another branch would be opened this week at Kensington, Pa.

The vacant book was read, and showed that within the last two weeks fifteen members had signed and claimed the benefit of the branch.

All, Whitmore ruled an objection to Mr. Williams receiving any beneficial aid, as he believed that he was not working at his trace at the time he signed the book.

After some discussion it was decided to refer the case to the branch committee for further investigation. Mr. Burgoyne entered an appeal.

Mr. Williams thought it was evident that the branch wanted his motory and not him, therefore he would present the full amount to the association.

he would present the full amount to the association.

Mr. Lowe did not think the branch had anything to do with the subject, and he for one did not propose to handle it.

The president informed him that if ne did not intend to perform the duty he had better resign, which Mr. Lowe immediately did.

Messra. Grimes, Schults and Bramon were appointed to fill vacansies on the branch committee.

The secretary was instructed to correspond with the executive committee and obtain their opinion in the case of Mr. Williams regarding his claim for donations.

Mr. J. P. McMahon's resignation as secretary was accepted, and A. J. Linton choesn to fill the vacance, at the same time resigning his position 23 auditor.

The meeting then adjourned.

PLATE PRINTERS' BALL.

A SCENE OF REVELRY AND MIBTH.

The last grand ball of the gay reason was held last night at Masonic Temple, under the auspices of the Plate Printers' Union, and was at once a fitting successor to its predecessors, a credit to the association giving it, and a worthy event to precede the Leaten eason. nesociation giving it, and a worthy event to precede the Lenten season.

Of course, the numerous lady guests had been on the tip-toe of expectation for the past two or three weeks, and had made great preparations for the event, but the manner in which they "turned out" and the elaborate toilets they were surprised even the most sanguine of the managers, and proved that the annual ball of the Union is an avent in the history of the surprised aven the host sanguine of the Union is an avent in the history of the surprised greater that the annual ball of the Union is an avent in the history of the surprised greater that the annual ball of the Union is an avent in the history of the surprised greater that the annual ball of the Union is an avent in the history of the surprised greater than the surp

FORD'S OPERA HOUSE.

"Madame Angot's Child" was presented at Ford's last evening to a large and critical audience, and from the manner in which it was applauded there is no doubt that the representation gave due satisfaction. The opers is full of beautiful and taking music, while the dialogue is sprightly and amusing. Mrs. Oates as Clarette was quite in her element. The character his her exactly, and she did it full justice. The other characters were well sustained, while the scenery and costumes were exceedingly beautiful.
"Madame Angot's Child" will be repeated this evening, and should be seen by all who can appreciate beautiful music and really good acting.
